Wednesday August 21st at 4pm:

Live piano music from the Edwardian music halls and west end musicals followed by freshly made scones and tea. Terry always has a theme and this month he will be looking at the humorous pretensions of the social classes. The rich array of fictional characters include chinless wonders, ruthless social climbers and plenty who are 'working class and proud of it'. So whether you identify as a duke, a doctor or a dustman please come along for a journey up and down both the social and musical scales. £10 p/p RSVF.
